

GETTING SOME EXORCISE

BY KEVIN JENKINSON

A TOP medium reckons he has ended a family's terrifying ordeal by banishing a violent ghost back to the spirit world — and The Star was there to see the 'exorcism'.

The Dublin family had been haunted by the nasty and later spirit for more than two decades.

The Star visited their home in Finglas on Wednesday with top Irish spirit medium Tom Colton and three investigators from the Paranormal Investigation Society (PIS).

Spooky activity has followed the Emmett family to Meath, where they moved in its 1987, and then back again to Finglas.

"I've had it with this fella and it seems to be attacking the men in the family, but we are not leaving," said former soldier John Emmett.

John and his wife Helen described how every month the paranormal activity would ensue, causing a feeling of anger and hate in house — while electronic devices would switch on by themselves.

When a radio near was in the house on Tuesday morning for the story, Ryan Shon on 2PM, their equipment failed while they were in the front sitting room talking live to the RTÉ presenter.

And on Wednesday, medium Tom Colton walked into each room and out four spirits. Three were visitors who had already 'passed on' and appeared to be linked to the family. Tom got detailed private information from these spirits that the Emmett family confirmed.

In the back room, where a dark, tall figure has tormented the children of the house over the years, Tom said: "There is a very vocal energy in here."

Bitter

"A tall, strong country man — about 6ft 10in with large hands — who died of a sudden heart attack. He is extremely bitter and angry."

Tom proceeded to calm the spirit before directing it towards a bright white light, where he sensed two women coming to welcome him into the other world.

The Emmett family immediately noticed a difference in the room.
